PUBLIC HEALTH IS PURCHASEABLE

The success of the sanitary measures adopted by Major General William C. Gorgas, formerly surgeon general of the United States army, in stamping out yellow fever in Guayaquil, its last stronghold, confirms the truth of the motto of the New York state board of health: "Public Health is Purchaseable."

General Gorgas believes that yellow fever, which as recently as 1878 caused 4,056 deaths in New Orleans, and made many of the tropical American cities dangerous places to visit has been eradicated. What a triumph for sanitation.

The extirpation of this disease was accomplished by destruction of the breeding places of the stegomyia mosquito, which was found to be the agent of transmission. Malaria, which in the south probably produces more debility and loss of time from work than any other disease, is disseminated by the anopheles mosquito. This disease, too, can be eliminated by destruction of the mosquito's breeding places. It is estimated that there are 1,500,000 cases of malaria a year in the United States and that the disease causes an annual loss of $10,000,000. This could be prevented. The Rockefeller international health board has recently completed some studies in malaria control which furnish proof. Thus at Crossett, a lumber town of 2,000 population in Arkansas, through a campaign on mosquito extermination through oiling and drainage, the number of physicians' calls was reduced from 2,500 to 200 a year. The drainage cost $2,000.

"Within natural limitations any community can determine its own death rate."—Springfield Republican.

Children's EYES

If your boy or girl didn't make a good showing the last school term have his or her eyes examined by us—for one of the principal reasons for "backward" children is defective vision.

PROPER GLASSES will make a brighter youngster and will very often aid the vision so much that the glasses will not be needed later in life. Act NOW before school opens.

Resoling Your Shoes
Doubles Their Life

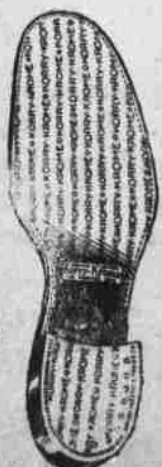

THROWING away good shoe uppers means wasting half of the service you should receive from them—because uppers practically always outwear the soles. Resoling costs from one-third to one-fifth as much as new shoes—it doubles the life of your shoes. We use the finest materials and workmanship in our resoling—and give every customer's requirements close, personal attention.

Where the most durable and comfortable soles are wanted, we use KERRY-KROME, a mineral-tanned leather that OUTLASTS OAK OR BARK-TANNED SOLES TWO-TO-ONE.

It is pliable, comfortable and permanently waterproof—is splendid for use of policemen, mailmen, businessmen, romping children, and others giving shoes hard service.

Bring in your old uppers—you'll find our service intelligent and our prices consistent with the quality of the work done.
